PUMPING RECORDS WERE BROKEN MONDAY

1,400,000 GALLONS OF WATER WERE USED OR WASTED IN DIXON.

SUPERINTENDENT GIVES WARNING

Danger of Fire Loss Is Increased — Care Must Be Taken By People.

The Dixon Water company yesterday broke all pumping records in the history of the local plant when 1,400,000 gallons of water were pumped. The unusual pumping was necessary because many patrons are wasting water, Superintendent Hawley stated in an interview with the Telegraph this afternoon. He said:

"The people of Dixon are using an extremely large amount of water, and care must be taken not to waste it. Taps are being left open that in case of fire would materially jeopardize property on account of the impossibility of getting up necessary pressure. Therefore, we have found it necessary to rule that anyone using the water for sprinkling purposes before the whistle blows at 5 p. m. or after it blows at 8 p. m. or 8 a. m. shall forfeit their rights to the use of the water.

"In case of fire the whistle will blow ten blasts, at which time everybody must discontinue the use of the water until the whistle blows one long blast after the fire is out. The warning we are giving is for the good of all."

He ran the 28 miles from Rochelle to Dixon in 36 minutes, his stop to change tire being in that section of the run.

LEE CO. CONTRACTORS TO SUBMIT FIGURES

WILL BID ON STATE AID ROADS TO BE BUILT HERE THIS YEAR.

TOMORROW DAY OF LETTING

Lee county bidders are expected to submit proposals on the construction of state aid roads in this county this years, the bids for which will be opened by the State Highway commission at its offices in Springfield tomorrow, when it is expected the contracts will be let. The specifications for the work this year provide for alternative bids on crushed rock or gravel macadam for both the Dixon and Amboy improvements, and inasmuch as Lee county road men have had considerable experience with these materials no doubt their figures will receive consideration. It is considered probable by highway officials that gravel will be used in the Amboy improvements and crushed stone will be used on the Dixon township end of the work.

NEGRO RELIGIOUS FANATIC KILLS FOUR

CHICAGO POLICE HAD A ROYAL BATTLE WITH CRAZY MAN THIS MORNING.

KILLED HIM AND HIS WIFE

Three Charges of Dynamite Were Exploded Under Flat and Many Shots Fired.

(Associated Press)

Chicago, July 18—P. J. McIntyre, a negro religious fanatic, becoming violently insane at about 5 o'clock this morning, killed four persons and wounded three with a rifle before the police, whom he held at bay for an hour or more, killed him and his wife.

Hundreds of shots were exchanged between the crazed man, barricaded in his flat in a two-story brick building on North Irving avenue, and the police. The police attempted to burn the place and failed so three charges of dynamite were exploded under it, as they were unable to advance in the face of the accurate fire of the negro.

The dead are:

Stuart Dean, a policeman.

Mrs. Josephine Overmeier, a neighbor.

Edward Knox, a negro.

Alfred Matthews, a negro, was found shot to death on the porch at his home.

The wounded are:

Edward Clement, detective sergeant.

Grover Crabtree, policeman.

Mrs. Sadia Knox, wife of murderer's victim.

Wife's Head Blown Off.

McIntyre was finally shot by the police and his wife's head was blown off. Mrs. McIntyre is supposed to have assisted him by reloading weapons, as a cartridge belt was found around her waist. A similar one was worn by her husband.

Attempt to Storm Place

The first police on the scene after McIntyre started his mad career attempted to storm the place with clubs and pistols, but were driven back. Later more than a hundred police arrived with rifles and Captain Hess assumed command. Until the police exploded dynamite under the house, however, headway was impossible.

In McIntyre's room the officers found a piece of wrapping paper on which he had scrawled: "Almighty God made me a prophet unto all nations and also my wife, Hattie. 168 3 shall know the Lord sent me to go unto the Lord the remnant of the adonized."

Socialist Speaker Says War Will Follow Big Preparedness

Alderman J. C. Kennedy of Chicago, an advocate of socialistic principles, addressed a large crowd last evening at the corner of Hennepin avenue and First street and will deliver another address at the same place tonight. Alderman Kennedy urges preparedness but not war. He said in part:

"The capitalists of this country want the foreign markets. Capitalism, imperialism, militarism is the order, and it is based on the exploitation of the working class.

If European working men could get an adequate result of their labor there would be no use for the foregn market; the war would not occur if the working man could use what he produced.

Blames Newspapers.

The preparedness program is largely being fostered by the newspapers. It is getting to be a slogan with the working classes in Chicago that if you read it in the Tribune, do the opposite. The American Association of Commerce is behind the preparedness program, because it means business for them. Next the manufacturer of war material is behind it.

The third factor is the larger army and navy people. But after this country or any other has prepared for big things in war the time will come when you will want to try those big things and that will mean war.

Cause of War.

The chief cause of war is the economic basis of life. If the wage earner got a minimum of $15 a week do you think the country would be better? If he had to work only six hours a day would it not be better? The working man has no imagination; that is the trouble. He holds his nose to the grindstone. When you get imagination and see that some men are getting too much and others too little, you begin to see emancipation."

Alderman Kennedy urged the voters to do all they could to defeat the war trust in the next congress. He declared that all the munitions of war should be manufactured by the government.

Alderman Kennedy declareu that the Hearst estate has large holdings in Mexico; the McCormicks, who are represented on the Chicago Tribune, have large holdings in Mexico; they want war.

Thirty-Two Fine Programs At Cost Of Eight Cents Each

Rock River Chautauqua Assembly this year offers 32 splendid entertainments for the small sum of $2.50; also an attractive park for visitors, rest and picnic dinners and an attractive bathing beach. Several attractions on the program are the best money can buy. For 28 years the Rock River Assembly has held sessions, hence it is well advertised and about the only fact the people desire at this time is the day of opening. The people know the program always pleases, because it is always arranged to be entertaining to all classes.

Thousands Attend.

Thousands of people attend the Assembly just to enjoy the park and meet their friends. If the weather is good the indications are that this year's session will make a record in point of attendance.

Saturday, July 29, opening day, is just as good as any of the others. On that day Judge George D. Alden will lecture on "The Needs of the Hour." This is a vital subject and all are interested in knowing the needs of the hour. Politically speaking, the students of politics will want to know. The preacher and his flock will want to know. Judge Alden is a splendid talker and is deeply interested in the welfare of man.

At 7 p. m. on the opening day the Moose band will play a concert and at 8 o'clock the Oxford company will put on a grand concert; after the concert there will be a program of moving pictures.

First Sunday.

On the afternoon of the first Sunday Bishop Mitchell of the Methodist conference will deliver a sermon lecture. This will be Dr. Mitchell's first appearance at the Assembly. He is a splendid speaker. Sunday evening Dr. Henry R. Rose will give an entertainment of art, music and eloquence. His entertainment will be attractive and instructive.

Patrons should keep in mind the entertainment the first Sunday evening, as it is one of the strongest of the session.

FLIES.

A great many years ago this was a safe and happy country. There was nothing for the pioneer to fear but Indians, wolves bears, rattlesnakes and malaria. Alas! those happy, carefree times are past. We must now sit, ever vigilant and sleepless, guarding our loved ones, for who knows at what minute a fly may burst its way into our happy homes and glut its appetite with fair young lives?

A fly was once a small buzzer with a fondness for falling into the buttermilk and for sunning himself on the baby's nose. But science has turned its microscope on him and he has become a huge menace with fierce and hairy legs. He is a microbe omnibus and carries a million germs from one place to another without charging fare.

The grim tiger stalking his victim is not considered by doctors to be so terrible as the common biplane housefly who sits on the skating rink of a prominent citizen and rubs quarts and quarts of deadly microbes off on the unprotected head of his victim.

The fly has been muck-raked so much that he is now generally regarded as an undesirable and leads a hard and exciting life. He is pursued with poison, folded newspapers, traps, wire swatters, editorials and resolutions. He that swatteth a fly is now held to be a good citizen no matter how careless he is about voting, who was once held in great dislike because of his heartless ways, is now so beloved because of his appetite for flies that no home is happy without one.

The Swat the Fly campaign last summer decreased the total visible supply of flies from 23,000,000,000,000 to 22, 999,000,000, and the statistics for this season are expected to be even more startling. It would be discouraging to think that each of the remaining flies would be capable of producing 7,000,000,000 descendants next summer—if it were not for the fact that Nature in her gentle way disposes of most of the survivors with the first big frost. This teaches us, beloved, to leave the fly swatting job to Nature and to take up once more the neglected talk of swatting bad legislation.

SLAVS STAGGER TEUTONIC LINE

Strike Terrific Blows Along Entire Eastern Front.

GERMANS ADMIT RETIREMENT

Kaiser's Men Are Driven Beyond the Lipa—Czar Strikes Heavily in Riga District—Austrians Driven from Hungarian Town of Kirlababa—13,000 Prisoners Taken in Volhynia. Kovel Periled.

London, July 18.—Smashing renewal of the Russian drive west of Lutsk hurled the Germans back across the Lipa (Luga) River, drove the Austrians from the town of Kirlababa, in Hungary, on the Transylvanian frontier in the Carpathians and shook the German defenses in the Riga sector.

The three staggering blows to the Teutonic defense on the eastern front mark the day as one of the most important to the Czar's forces since the beginning of their sensational advance six weeks ago. Berlin officially admits the retreat beyond the Lipa, twenty miles west of Lutsk.

Open Way to Hungary.

By the advances the Russians reveal a gain of twenty miles west from Kimolung in the Carpathian fighting, Kirlababa being an important town forty miles southwest of Radautz, and near the Roumanian border. It commands one of the most important passes of the Carpathians and its capture opens the way for a direct Russian drive with heavy forces into Hungary.

The Russian advance to the Lipa in the Volhynian fighting, by forcing a rearrangement of a wide section of the German front, brings new peril to Kovel, which for more than a week has been resting in temporary security since the Slavs were checked in the Stokhod River line. Nearly 13,000 prisoners were taken in the Volhynian esctor by the Russian onslaught which forced the German retreat. Heavy reinforcements are being rushed to Kovel by the Germans for immediate distribution to points threatened by the general Russian advance upon that important railway center and fortress.

Vladimir Volyski Periled.

The Russian gains now threaten the stronghold of Vladimir Volynski.

The fall of Kovel now would be a staggering blow to the central powers, completely disrupting thir plans. Lemberg would need men more than ever, the road to the great fortress of Brest Litovsk opened and the rear of the entire Pinsk region threatened, necessitating the German withdrawal.

The Russians apparently do not lack ammunition. Printed on cartridge cases are the phrases:

"Don't spare bullets—don't spare courage. There's a plenty for all."

Cossacks, from the Don; Urals, fresh young giants from Siberia and elsewhere, are fighting like game cocks, striving to outdo each other in daredevil charges.

262,000 Men Killed.

The heavy toll of lives taken by the Russians in addition to the capture of approximately 275,000 prisoners since their offensive began, is indicated in an Overseas News Agency dispatch from Berlin, which cites Petrograd as authority for the statement that 14,900 officers and 248,000 men have been killed in battle since July 1.

In the neighborhood of Shanghai, we are told by the San Francisco Argonaut, an English sailor on his way to the foreigners' burial ground lay a wreath on the grave of a former comrade, met an intelligent looking native carrying a pot of rice. "Hello, John," he hailed, "where are you going with that 'ere?" "I take put on glave—glave of my flien'," said the Chinaman. "Ho! ho!" laughed the sailor, "and when do you expect your friend to come up and eat it?" "All time same your flien' come up and smellee your flowers," replied the Chinaman.

Boynton-Richards Co.

The Hikers' Camp at Assembly Park opened auspiciously with John Patterson of Alpha as manager; Ira Lewis as assistant manager and chief cook; and Rev. George W. Stoddard as supervisor of play. The boys are much in evidence. All are there, except Edward Belknap, who is ill. Harold Kanzler was the last boy to enroll. A mistake was inadvertently made in the list of names published; it should read Glen Tompkins instead of Joe. Glen is swimming like a fish.

There are three tents,—two large sleeping tents and a cook tent. The boys are sumptuously fed—three meals a day. John Patterson, with the aid of four boys, cooks breakfast; Ira Lewis and four other boys will serve the noon meal, while Mr. Stoddard will provide the supper each evening.

Athletics plays no small part in the enjoyment of the camp. Ellsworth Breamer shinned up two trees and put up a trapese and the flying rings last evening, while Carroll Riley "pulled off" a ball game. He received a challenge from the manager of the boys of the St. James't choir for a game, and the boys will play the Chicago boys. This mere announcement will attract the sport writers of the Chicago papers, no doubt. The boys refuse to state when the game will be played. Gilman Calkins has a complete Indian garb and it isn't surprising that the boys call him "Indian." The new scout books were delivered at camp last night and the boys read them by the glare of a gasoline torch.

Miss Edna Decker, cashier and bookkeeper at Woolworth's, did the boys a "good turn" last evening when she took seven in a gasoline launch for a river trip. On returning she promised the other boys a ride on Wednesday evening. Mr. Coe will do a generous thing for the entire camp this evening when he will "motor" the boys to Lowell Park, where a picnic supper will be served.

Wednesday evening will be visitors' night. The boys will be glad to see the "Dear folks from home" during the hours from seven until nine o'clock.

Orville Perrine was up with the sun this morning and went fishing before breakfast. Mr. Patterson will arouse the boys out of their comfortable sleep at four o'clock Wednesday and hike with them in tree and bird study before breakfast.

All necessary telephone calls will be promptly answered by calling No. 12,458, the home of Mr. Sleasman, the caretaker of the park. But don't call just for fun. Mr. Sleasman is popular with the boys, because he is doing all within his power to aid in giving the boys a happy time.

No Picnic

The Christian church of Dixon, which had planned to unite with the congregations of the Christian churches of Polo, Pine Creek, and Grand Detour, has decided to participate in no picnic until after the epidemic of infantile paralysis subsides.

For Supper and Golf

A party of twenty will enjoy supper and golf at the Country Club this evening.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Historical Society Social

The Palmyra Historical Society will hold an ice cream and cake social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Lawton Friday evening, July 21st. The proceeds will be used to mark the spot where the first church was erected seventy-six years ago on the present site of the Gap Grove school house.

Formed several years ago to locate and mark special places of interest in Palmyra township, the Palmyra Historical society has already been instrumental in marking the house where the first white child, George H. Page, was born, the location of the first school house where W. W. Bethea was first teacher, has erected a tablet in the town hall in memory of Fred W. Coe, who named the town in 1850, and has also been the means of placing in the town hall pictures of many of the old settlers.

Any information in regard to this early church will be appreciated and may be sent to Mar. Charles H. and may be sent to Mrs. Chas. H. Russell, Secretary-Treasurer, Dixon,

MAN FROM WEST SHOCKS MILWAUKEE HOTEL CLERK

Hell, He Tells His Skeptics Is on the Union Pacific, Sixty Miles From Paradise

Milwaukee, Wis.—He was a short man, mild mannered, and had a pleasant smile, but he got the clerk's goat at the Hotel Maryland when he registered, "Paul M. Fredericks, Hell."

"You hadenotta do that," protested the clerk. "Don't pull that hell stuff here."

"But there's where I come from," spoke Fredericks. "Hell's in North Dakota."

"Tell us some more," Fredericks was asked by Manager F. B. Sweeney.

"Well, Hell (sometimes spelled Heil) is sixty miles from Paradise," explained Fredericks to the consternation of his hearers, "and we have some fine country. You see you go to Hell on the U. P., on the Mott branch, seven miles east of Elgin. Paradise is inland, and the only way that you can get there is by stage, and you can only go to Paradise three times a week from Morristown, S. D. Both of the towns are in Morton county, in southwestern North Dakota."

"How large are the towns?" asked one of the auditors.

"We've got it all over Paradise; Hell's more than twice as large," replied Fredericks.

"Why we have three churches in Hell now, while they only have one in Paradise.

"Bill Hell is postmaster at Hell and Dick Hell does most of the driving; he has a fine livery business.

"Over in Paradise there is not much doing. They have a woman handle the mails there, Eva Weinrich.

"Do you like Milwaukee?" Fredericks was asked.

"Well, yes; Milwaukee is livelier than Hell and much larger. I think I'll stay a while."

THE PASSING OF HANDWRITING.

Handwriting, like spelling, is in danger of becoming a lost art.

Not so very many generations back handwriting was considered an important accomplishment in which its fortunate possessor took great pride. Ability to write marks one as a person of unusual attainments.

But times have changed greatly. The common schools have made the ability to write common, and at the same time the typewriter has made writing by hand uncommon.

In this rapid age people write fast instead of plainly; and the man who would even hint at the desirability of precise handwriting would be regarded as a fossil and a fogy.

The business man when he writes at all usually scribbles, and he writes so seldom, except to sign his name, that he gets out of practice. His time is too valuable for writing by hand when it can be done so much more quickly and better by a stenographer.

The women have no such excuse. Indeed, women as a rule do not need excuse, for their handwriting is far superior in precision and elegance to that of men.

With the good old-fashioned, elegant handwriting have passed away too the good old-fashioned sociable letters of a former generation.

We scribble brief notes these days. The newspaper, telephone, telegraph and fast mail have rendered the old long letters unnecssary. A letter today is no longer a summary of the family and neighborhood news. It is written to say some specific thing, and when that is said it ends.

It is a pity that letter-writing and even handwriting itself is falling into desuetude. There is nothing helps one to draw himself together better than the writing of a letter to an old friend. It brings his past before him in a panorama and gives him a correct perspective of the present, better than anything else can do.—Rockford Register-Gazette.

ADKINS SALS "THEY CAN'T STOP HIM."

Former Speaker of the House at Springfield Charles W. Adkins, who was in Chicago after a tour of state lecturing on farm subjects, says:

"I've visited 74 of Illinois' 101 counties in the past year, talking to farmers at their institutes and corn club and discussions of soil problems, but I've also talked with them about politics. Now if you put it straight to me who's going to run second and who third in the race for the republican nomination for governor, I'd have to admit a doubt. It's some guess whether Frank Smith or Morton Hull will poll the more votes, but at any rate there can be no doubt as to who is in the lead. Colonel Lowden is so far ahead that nobody else can escape the distance flag."

"It's in the air, believe Farmer Adkins. And it's a good deal more in the air than it was a few months ago. I've been over some ground two or three times and have noted the trend. Here's a remarkable thing: Outside of Colonel Smith's home congressional district, I have not heard a single man of prominence predict the nomination of anyone except Colonel Lowden. In fact, I'm told that Colonel Smith may not carry McLean and Ford counties in his own district, though everyone says he's a good fellow. I can't see for a minute where Senator Hull has a look-in down state, especially as I find many friends of former Governor Deneen favoring Colonel Lowden, recalling how the colonel took his medicine without a wry face when the Deneen-Yates combination gave Mr. Deneen the nomination for governor in the 17-day state convention just when Lowden almost had it in his hand."

At St. Louis, one delegate out of a convention of 1092 voted against the renomination of a candidate who four years ago was elected on a platform containing a pledge of a single term. And the party that nominated this man now challenges comparison of its record for keeping pledges.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Little Tuk Has A Dream on Horseback.

They Came to the Old Town.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

SOON as daddy had finished reading his paper he began the bedtime story. "Years and years ago there was a little boy who used to help his mother take care of his baby sister every day after school. This took so much time that he had to manage about getting his geography lesson. Then there was a poor old woman that he used to help carry water. When he went to bed he had to put his geography under his pillow, so that when he slept he might get some of the lesson. But that night something went 'Cribble, crabble, bang!' and a popinjay sat right down on the edge of his bed.

"Then little Tuk no longer lay in bed. He was on horseback. Gallop-a-gallop he went. He was sitting in front of a splendidly dressed knight with a shining helmet and a nodding plume. Through the woods they galloped till they came to the old town of Vordingborg, a big place in those days. The king used to live there, and over the city towered his castle. Lights shone from its windows as little Tuk galloped into the town. Through the windows he could see people dancing and singing, and King Waldemar himself led out beautiful court ladies to the dance.

"Morning came, and as the sun rose the town sank away, and one after another the towers of the king's palace faded out of little Tuk's sight. At last on the hill where the castle once stood there was only one tower left.

"Along the streets strolled schoolboys with their geographies under their arms. 'Two thousand inhabitants,' little Tuk heard them keep saying. But he knew that was not true. He could see that not nearly so many people lived in the old town of Vordingborg.

"Then little Tuk thought he was lying in his bed. First he thought he was dreaming, but soon he knew he was not dreaming, because there was some one right there close beside him.

"A sailor, a tiny little sailor so small he might have been a cadet, only he was not a cadet, kept saying to him: 'Little Tuk, little Tuk, I came to greet you warmly from Korsoer, which is a rising town. It has many steamers and coaches. Once it used to be called a sleepy, dull town, but that was an old fashioned idea. "I lie close to the sea," says Korsoer, "and I have good roads and pleasure gardens. I once gave birth to a poet who was amusing, and that is more than most poets are. I wanted to send a ship around the world, but I never did, and there is always the most delicious fragrance about me, because close by my gates there are beautiful rose gardens."'"

"Oh, daddy, what a nice way to study geography!" cried the children.

NEW BRIDGE NEEDED.

A substantial cement bridge is what Dixon most needs at the present time. This statement is true and very much to the point. There are many ways to consider this bridge question, but not one which does not further the progress, beauty and safety of our city—bringing more people to us—and greater advantages.

Our good old iron bridge has stood many a year, meeting the requirements of traffic, which has grown constantly greater as time has advanced, but the bridge has not grown in the meantime, only more crowded and less able to take care of its burden. Not long ago the history of our community might have received a blow which could not have been erased, had the interurban car crashed through the iron railing into the river, causing loss of life and destruction. It was only the heavy irons on the side of the bridge which prevented this awful catastrophe; and only a matter of inconvenience and expense has been the result to the city, and one side of the bridge made impassible at that point.

What would the public have done if both sides had been affected and traffic postponed? This might happen; and while our population, which is steadily increasing, is such that it will permit of the county standing half the expense of a new bridge; this surely is the proper time to consider the bridge question.

There has been a general expression from the country people that they greatly favor an added bridge and will gladly do their part, for it means much, especially to them

The prosperity of the country is demonstrated in the ever-increasing number of automobiles and other vehicles which, added to those local ones always on the way brings before us constantly the increasing need of a second passage way over our beautiful Rock river.

A modern cement structure located below the present bridge would be a source of great pride and convenience to Dixon, whose people enjoy everything good and beautiful that comes by way of progress and improvement

New York, July 18.—A further decrease in the number of deaths and new cases in the epidemic of infantile paralysis was reported by the health department. During the twenty-four hours ending at 10 o'clock Monday fourteen children died of the disease and there were ninety-five new cases in the five boroughs of New York city.

The new bureau of the health department made possible by a gift of $50,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation, to help curb the epidemic of infantile paralysis, began work under direction of Dr. Alvah H. Doty. This bureau will train families, members of which have been exposed to the disease.

REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE UNION

Adjustment of Cement Strike Halts Because of Operators' Attitude.

La Salle, Ill., July 18.—Refusal of cement plant managements to confer with strikers as union representatives halted adjustment of the strike of 1,200 cement workers here and at Oglesby. Five companies of the Sixth regiment, Illinois national guard, remained on duty pending settlement, despite protests of labor leaders that their presence is unnecessary.

No attempt has as yet been made to operate the work train between La Salle and the cement plants. Starting of this train would be the signal for trouble, authorities believed.

RURAL CREDITS BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Does Two Pen Act and Lauds Farmers' Measure.

Washington, July 18.—President Wilson signed the rural credits bill passed recently by congress. A group of senators, representatives and officers applauded warmly as Mr. Wilson affixed his signature.

Just before signing the measure, which creates a system of twelve land loan banks under direction of a federal board, the president made a short address, pointing out the benefits he believed both farmers and the investing community would enjoy under its operation.

"This bill," said the President, "along with the very liberal provisions of the federal reserve act, puts the farmers upon an equality with all others who have genuine assets and makes the great credit of the country available to them. One cannot but feel that this is delayed justice to them and cannot but feel that it is a very gratifying thing to play any part in doing this act of justice."

The President used two pens in signing the bill, and gave one of them to Senator Fletcher of Florida, who asked permission to present it to the Southern Commercial congress.

APPEAL DIRECT TO RULERS

President Wilson Expected to Ask Aid for Poles in Personal Letters.

Washington, July 18.—Personal letters probably will be sent by President Wilson to the king of England, the president of France, the emperor of Germany and the emperor of Russia, urging them to allow food to be sent by the United States to the starving people of Poland. The president has asked the state department to advise him as to the most desirable way to proceed.

So far all efforts to arrange for the shipment of food into the portions of Poland occupied by Germany have failed. It will be necessary to get permission for passage of supplies through the allied blockade, and assurances from Germany that they will be used by the Poles and not by the German army of occupation.

WEST BROOKLYN

Have you seen the posters telling of the big Seelig's ball in the opera house on the night of July 24th?

Another large crowd was in town on Thursday night for the band concert and a count of the automobiles parked about the various streets of the town gives an estimate of from 1000 to 1500 persons who journeyed to West Brooklyn to hear the music.

Mathias Haub Jr. was in town Friday on business.

Geo. B. Shaw of the Daily Telegraph was down from Dixon Thursday afternoon.

Wm. Zinke and wife were in West Brooklyn Thursday.

The boy scouts returned home on Thursday evening from their week's stay in camp along Rock river near Dixon and report a great time. On Wednesday evening the boys were caught by the storm and had to get out of their bunks in the rain to hold down their tents. The wind was strong and the boys say the water was mighty wet.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Henkel were here Thursday.

Henry W. Gehant is taking his vacation at the present time and N. J. Bieschke is carrying the mail during his absence on route 2.

The scale inspector of the C. B. & Q. dropped into the office of the West Brooklyn Farmers Elevator company on Thursday. He was prepared to test the track scale used by the company in weighing grain consigned to the commission houses and to ascertain whether the scales were still accurate. It is the weights of the local track scales which must be used in collecting all claims for shortage of grain and for this reason the railway company are very particular that the scale is always correct. The inspector found the scale correct and also the wagon scale used by the elevator patrons who deliver grain to the company. He has given the manager a certificate covering both scales.

Through the courtesy of one of our business men West Brooklyn now is able to furnish the weary with a pleasant and comfortable place to sleep during the sultry hours of the afternoon. The place is under the shade trees on a grass bedded lawn where the cool breeze can strike the sleeper during his repose. It is such hospitality on the part of enterprising and hustling business men of West Brooklyn that makes people love to come here to spend a day or two now and then.

A Baseball Game.

Hats off to Harmon for they are excellent examples of the old adage, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." They managed to assemble a baseball team on Sunday afternoon which succeeded in breaking the winning streak of the West Brooklyn nine after the local boys had amassed a total of ten successive games won and none lost. It is a fine record and one that Lee county baseball teams will shoot at a long time before they are able to equal it. A team that will go out and meet all comers and win ten games before losing is a team to be proud of, and we are proud of them.

The score of the game on Sunday, which was played in a pasture south of Harmon, was 4 to 1 in favor of Harmon. West Brooklyn has no excuse to offer and no regrets to express. They simply were unable to connect safely with Wise, the pitcher secured from Sterling to twirl the game for the Harmon boys. He was a left-hander and had a baffling curve which did the trick. It was a case of too much Mr. Wise and nothing else, West Brooklyn has already defeated the Harmon boys three times this season, leaving the balance strongly in favor of West Brooklyn yet. The only regret we have to express is Harmon will not play the locals again It would be an interesting game now that Harmon has located a good pitcher down at Sterling who will help them and should prove a good drawing card. We trust they will change their mind and play another game as West Brooklyn folks are still of the firm opinion that their team can defeat Mr. Wise if given the opportunity. Any pitcher is apt to have it on a team on certain days and for this reason Harmon should take out of the treasury sufficient to hire Mr. Wise again and give the fans another interesting game. We know he is a good pitcher and was the making of a winner out of Harmon on Sunday. Now all this we say at the request of Jim Long, for Jim says, "Be sure to publish this game in the paper," and to show him that we are of the right spirit we write more than usual and more than we related during the entire ten games which West Brooklyn won. So here we are, Jim. "Hurrah for West Brooklyn, and Hurrah for Harmon, too."

How Kansas Became a State.

The fight on Kansas's entrance in the Union was a prelude to the vil War, which it hastened. The nsas conflict may be said to have en begun with the enactment of e territorial organization bill in 54. Both North and South strove r the possession of the territory, nd in the fight John Brown was olved and got the incentive which d him to make his Harper's Ferry aid of 1859, that intensified the ension between the sections and made the Civil War inevitable. If there had been no Kansas conflict there would have been no John Brown, the Whig party would have remained on the scene a few years longer to make its feeble opposition to the Democracy; the advent of the Republican party would have been delayed; there would have been no Lecompton constitution fight to cut off a segment from the Democratic party; the Democratic split in the Charleston convention of 1860 would have been postponed to 1864 or some other time, and it is possible that the Civil War would not have occurred yet, and that slavery would still be in existence; though, of course, its doom was certain, soon or late.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Rivals Rockefeller's Wealth.

It is believd that Sayaji Roo, the rajah of Baroda, is the possesor of wealth equal if not superior to that of J. D. Rockefeller. He was educated in an English university and his people are well governed. Much of his vast riches is in the form of precious stones. His wife owns the most famous diamond necklace in the world. It is worth $12,000,000, and is made up of 200 stones each the size of a hazelnut. She also has a collarette of 500 perfect diamonds, none less than twenty carats. In the treasure chamber is a carpet four square yards in surface, made up entirely of ropes of diamonds, pearls and rubies. It required $4,000,000 worth of gems and three years of labor. The long corridors of the palace are lined with marble and onyx of incalculable value. The palace is steam heated and electric elevators are placed at frequent intervals. Bronzes, paintings, statuary, all imported and worth many millions of dollars, are scattered throughout the royal dwelling.

Secret Drinking Device.

The sanitarium was for women only—women dipsomaniacs. A luxurious place. The rate was $125 a week.

"This," said the superintendent, "is our museum. Odd, grotesque, eh?" The museum was a collection of instruments for secret drinking that had been taken from female dipsomaniacs. There was a carriage clock with a false back that would hold a half pint of whisky. There was a muff with a round flask of india rubber in its hollow inside. A bottle, was hidden under a rosette. The owner of the muff would press it to her face—a very natural and common movement—and at the same time take a stiff drink. There were a dozen sorts of bonbons, candies of all shapes and hues, each containing two or three fingers of brandy. A fan—it would not open—had room for a half a pint in it. A number of purses were nothing but whisky flasks covered with beadwork or leather, or silver, or gold. There was even a prayer book with a flask inside.

Marriageable Ages in Novels.

"You can tell by the ages of the heroines of the modern novel writers that the marriageable age of women is being extended," mused the woman who is given to mental observations. "A woman can go pretty far nowadays without being considered an old maid by the novel writers. I remember the heroines of my girlhood days were all between eighteen and nineteen. It was a somewhat audacious writer who made the beautiful charmer of his novel twenty-one years old. But just pick up the modern novels. The authors and authoresses don't start the heroines on their mad careers until they are over thirty, and by the time they have gotten the girl or woman out in the center of the stage, plunged her off, she is close on to thirty-two or three. I have just completed a most interesting book in which the heroine is forty."—Philadelphia Record.

How Accidents Occur.

Twelve per cent. of all the accidents to people in cities happen on the streets. Statistics show that the average citizen, if he should meet with one hundred serious mischances on his walks abroad, would slip on the ice, and fall down under other circumstances, sixty-eight times he would get hurt ten times in boarding or dismounting from cars; he would be knocked down, or otherwise injured by horses and wagons six times; he would be bitten by dogs four times, and he would step disastrously upon banana peels twice. The remaining mishaps would be miscellaneous, and might include one or two collisions with motor cars, which have taken the place of bicycles as perils to the pedestrian.—Pearson's Magazine.

Indians Vote Square.

Speaking of the Indian, Chief Porter of the Creek nation recently said: "For forty years I have been familiar with Indian election affairs, and I have never heard of a case of repeating or intimidation of a voter. Repeating is impossible in the Indian elections, and so far as intimidation goes the Indian is too good a citizen to attempt any such crime."—Kansas City Journal.

THIS IS CERTAIN

THE PROOF THAT DIXON READERS CANNOT DENY

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

C. J. Kirkham, 522 Peoria Ave., Dixon, says: "I suffered from pains across my back for a long time. I didn't think the trouble was caused by disordered kidneys, but when a friends recommended Doan's Pills, I got a box at Leake Bros. Drug store They completely rid me of the backache and all other symptoms of kidney complaint."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER, Mr. Kirkham said: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney disease and the cure has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kirkham has twice publicly recommended. Foster- Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

GILDED BRICK DONATED TO MUSEUM IN MISSOURI

Missouri Banker Saved from Loss by Cashier Who Was Wise to the Swindler's Game

Macon, Mo.—One of the curious objects which has just been donated to the museum of the Macon library is an alleged gold brick, now the property of John A. Cook. This gilded brick came very near separating a banker from $5,000 some years ago. Mr. Cook got the brick from a lady who is now the widow of an ex-sheriff of the county, and he has kept it all these years waiting for the time when Macon should have a good public library with a museum annex.

Along with the brick is a small vial of gold dust, a black mask and a bottle of gold filings drilled out of a $20 gold piece.

Some twenty years ago a couple of well known operators, W. A. Atkins and Dave McCord, arranged the plan to sell their bogus brick to a wealthy Linn county banker for $5,000. McCord played the Indian. He established a tepee in a wild looking place on the Chariton River, painted his cheeks red and hunted up a lot of chicken feathers for his hair. Then he got some Indian blankets, a tomahawk and a long stemmed pipe. He looked like a noble Indian all right.

Atkins then a young and goodlooking man, hailed from St. Louis, told the Linn county banker that he had learned of the whereabouts of an old Indian who was digging among the Indian mounds on the Chariton River for some relics of his ancestors. He said the Indian was the discoverer of a fabulous rich mine in the west and that he had along with him a brick made out of gold taken from his mine. The brick, Atkins said was worth $15,000 or $20,000, but the Indian had no idea of its value and might be induced to part with it for $5,000. Atkins proposed that he and the banker would divide the profits.

The banker came to Macon county, and the Indian made for him like he was going to chop his head off, but Atkins interposed, spoke soothingly and managed to get possession of the gold brick for a while to have it tested. Here is where the ingenious part of the scheme came in. Atkins told the banker that he was perfectly willing to have the brick drilled at any place and the filings passed upon by any jeweler the banker might select.

A hole was drilled in the brick and the filings were put in a bottle and carried in the banker's pocket. Before they reached the jeweler however, Atkins managed to change the vials and when they reached the jeweler a test showed that the filings were real gold.

The banker went home to get his money, but his cashier had read about gold bricks and advised caution. An officer went along with the banker to hunt up the wild Indian, but found that he had vamoosed. Atkins, however was caught and tried. He was found guilty, sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, appealed to the Supreme Court and jumped his bond. Ten years later he was found in the West, an old and broken down man, and was brought back to Missouri and served out his sentence.

Sheriff James W. White, who had charge of the Macon end of the case, said that one of the curious things about gold brick men was, that they always hunted up some banker or shrewd financial man; that he never knew of a case where a sharper had offered to sell a gold brick to a farmer, although the funny papers insist that only the farmer is the gold brick man's game.

The brick is long and heavy and shows to this day a bright gold like surfece. It is made of some sort of a composition of brass and other metal. Its intrinsic value is probably $1.30.

He Asked to Know

A wandering magician was giving a sleight of hand exhibition at a summer hotel.

"Can any lady or gentleman in the audience lend me a ten dollar gold piece?" he asked.

"On vot?" eagerly shouted a pawnbroker.—Puck.

Studies in Archaeology

"What did you find in that supposed Indian mound?"

"Some rare specimens of pottery."

"Any inscriptions? The inscription often fixes the date."

"One bore the inscription 'Made in Kalamazoo.'"

Chords of Sympathy

First Clubwoman—"I noticed you talking to that old bore. Did she get on to her ailments?"

Second Clubwoman—"Yes. You might almost call it an organ recital."

The Test

Medium—"The spirit of your wife is here now; do you wish to speak to her thru me?"

Widower—"Ask her where the dickens she put my summer underwear."

Bringing Him to Time

"When I was a young man," declared the man with the iron jaw, "any young woman who expected a fellow to spend so much money on her would have been dropped with a thud! She would not have been considered at all! Taxicabs and expensive chocolates and orchids—"

"I never sent anything worse than roses in my life, pop," declared the younger edition to himself across the desk, earnestly. "You don't understand how much money it takes these days for a fellow to hold up his head—"

"Huh! Don't I?" breathed the man with the iron jaw. "If you fancy I am existing in ignorance of that fact I should be pleased to draw your attention to the sheaf of bills in the third drawer at your left! and you have the nerve to ask that your allowance be increased! I know why it is—you want to cut a splurge before some girl!"

"There isn't any particular girl," declared his son. "Of course, I have to be decent to 'em—and you can't ask a girl to the opera and expect her to go on the street car in pink satin slippers that cost twelve dollars."

"Great Scott!" gasped his father, falling back aghast. "Twelve dollars for a pair of slippers!"

"Any young woman," he said catching his breath, "who will spend twelve dollars for a dinky pair of slippers is bound to be an extravagant wife and ruin a man's career! Why, when I was a boy a woman could have got six pairs of high shoes for that sum, each warranted to wear a year! Why can't a young woman wear sensible clothes to the opera and sit upstairs and enjoy herself? Six dollars for a taxi—against twenty cents for car fare! It's time the young woman of today thought a little! If she has any real interest in you she's be glad to help you save five dollars and sixty cents—"

"Oh, nonsense!" said his son. "They haven't any sentimental feelings about me—or I about them! I'm just repaying dinners and other parties and they're glad to have some one take 'em around for a good time."

"Well, that's not my idea at all of the way things should be managed!" declared his father with warmth. "I don't like any such cold blooded give and take! You ought to pick out a nice girl that you like, and—"

"How can I get married till I earn a lot of money?" demanded the young man. "Besides, I don't want to get married—and neither do the girls. We're too young. Honest, I'm not squandering money dad. I have to hold up my end, you know!"

"I should say you did!" said his father, glaring at the bills in his hand. "You must use a derrick to get it up high enough! I'm trying to beat into your head the idea that I want you to be sensible and not be carried away by the extravagance of the age! I won't have you throwing money at the birds. Your allowance is big enough. When I was a young man I could have bought and sold the whole town on that allowance!"

"The cost of living has gone up," the young man reminded him. "It's hard for me to keep up with the rest. It's humiliating, especially when you're known to be so blamed well off!"

"Huh!" said his father. "What's that got to do with it? Have to make a fool spendthrift of you just because I can afford to do it? S'pose you want to get into the papers as the gilded chap who gives big tips and never wears the same tie twice."

"You don't understand," said the young man. "I might as well retire to a cave as to keep up the struggle on what I have now. The girls won't stand for it! All the fellows do those things for 'em and—"

"By all means," said the man with the iron jaw. "Do they expect diamonds on their birthdays, too?"

"They wouldn't accept anything of any value!" declared his son.

The man with the iron jaw choked. "Oh no—nothing but twenty dollar banquets and two dollars a pound bonbons! Retiring little things—with their twelve dollar slippers! When I was a young man twelve dollars would have supported a whole family in luxury for a week."

"Bob Garter's father," said the young man, casually, "gives Bob just twice as much money as I have to spend!"

"What!" shouted the man with the iron jaw. "Old Carter isn't in it with me! Why, he came near bankruptcy last year! If he can give that little whiffet of a son of his as much as that I'll not have them crowning over my family!"

"Do I get the double allowance," inquired the young man.

"I'll triple it," said the man with the iron jaw. "I guess a young man needs more money nowadays."

Could Guess

A witness, a jolly, plump old lady, on trial in the Supreme Court at Worcester was asked at what time a certain train of cars passed her house. She replied that she began knitting at three o'clock and had knit twice around the leg of a stocking before they came along. The next question of course, was how long it would take her to knit twice around. The judge here, in his usual quiet humor, suggested that that would depend upon the size of the stocking. To this the witness remarked that the stocking was for herself and they could exercise their own judgment as to the size and guess how long it would take.
